Years Age. Allentown. Pa., July 28.—After having been promised his former position as quarry boss in a cement quarry at Copley. Ulyses Wertman of West Copley, went into the stable of George Keiffer and hanged himself with a halter strap. Wertman had been employed as a quarry boss up to a year ago, when it became evident that he could not stand the strain of the position. He was then given a less responsible place, and when his health improved he applied for his old poistion. This request was granted this morning, and he was to start work to-morrow. From the quarry, he went to the stable, where his dead body was found this afternoon by reveral children. Wertman's father committed suicide in the same manner at New Trippli about fifteen years ago.
